VGHAM SUPPLEMENT

evidence is that Rev. H. Wartman was anized the Lutheran church at McGaheysertainly as early as 1757.

Staunton show that Jacob Harman Creek at McGaheysville, and in 1762 le his will Nov. 1, 1750, and in it gave peler and the same amount to Rev. Mr. me is not given, to be paid Nov. 1, 1752. ft his rifle and other legacies. The rest im Love, his friend and executor. ew Erection name, and Ephraim Love cality. Diligent inquiry has failed to 's in Rockingham, but they were probably ist.

THER MINISTERS

CHOOLMASTERS

a County, Va., show that prior to June ight a school in Pendleton County, Va., iborhood of McGaheysville, Rockingham that he was a German; and probably he ourt papers 421) also show that Edward 1766 in the vicinity of Andrew Bird and l was on or near Smith's Creek.

ARLY DOCTORS

cords show at least three doctors in evolutionary War. Dr. Conrad Knave Timberville neighborhood before 1760. Housing was practicing in the 1770 Dr. Michael Archdeacon was a 'ort Republic.

KISLING FAMILY

tled in the neighborhood of the present rlier. He died in 1774, probably as the records of Augusta County show that an His inventory indicates that he was a widow, Christina, who married John shorhood; and he had several sons and hn and Christopher Kisling. Reuben vyer's Road, was probably a son of John ent member of the family was Jacob in 1778 and was bound to Philip Lingel n-maker. He served as a soldier in the War of the Revolution in the campaign against Arnold in 1781 and in the siege of Yorktown. He was a noted rifle shot, and after the Revolution was a captain of Rockingham militia. He married Barbara Lingel, widow of Philip Lingel, in 1782, and they had the following children: Henry Kisling, who married his cousin, Miss Miller; Christina Kisling, who married Colonel Joseph Mauzy, a captain of the War of 1812; Ann Kisling, who married, first, John Pence, and second, Rodham Kemper of Cross Keys; Mary Kisling, who married Philip Hopkins, a merchant of Staunton, Virginia; Elizabeth Kisling, who married Edward Stevens.

Henry Kisling had two sons: George J. Kisling, for years county surveyor of Rockingham County; and Whitfield Kisling, a captain in the Tenth Virginia Regiment and adjutant of that organization. He was killed at the battle of Spottsylvania Court House in 1864.

THE CRAIG FAMILY

William Craig and Janet, his wife, came to America from County Down or County Antrim, Ulster, Ireland, in 1732, with three sons, Robert, James and John, and probably two daughters. The family first settled in Chester County, Pennsylvania, near Kennett's Square, and remained there until 1740, in which year they came to Augusta County, Virginia.

James and Robert Craig settled permanently in 1745-46 in the Mt. Meridian neighborhood, Augusta County, Virginia, while John Craig, the youngest son, bought land from the Franciscos, in 1748, on Cub Run, in Rockingham County.

William Craig died in 1759; his will is recorded at Staunton. He signed a petition for a new road to the "New Stone Church" in 1748, and attended various sales in the McGaheysville neighborhood, which indicates that he was a citizen of present Rockingham County, and not of Augusta.

John Craig, son of William, married Sarah ———, and had the following children:

John Craig, who married a daughter of James Beard, and removed to Kentucky;

Lieutenant William Craig, who also removed to Kentucky, and was killed in a duel fought in the neighborhood of Danville, Kentucky;

Captain James Craig, who served either as a captain in the Revolution or in the Indian wars after the Revolution;

Mary Craig, who married Colonel John Cowan, of Rockingham, and moved to Kentucky;

Margaret Craig, who married her cousin, David Laird, and lived and died in Rockingham County.

THE HOUSTON FAMILY

In 1751 Archibald Houston patented land on Mill Creek, immediately above John Stephenson, whose daughter he had married.